What would you do differently if you started this over? I would be more creative with my work. Also be more serious during playtesting like taking notes on the feedback.

What other work does this make you want to do? Gaining exposure to digital product development can be beneficial. The skills involved in ideation, prototyping, playtesting, finalizing, and conducting a post-mortem are relevant to product management. My background in game development, especially with its focus on the entire product lifecycle, provides me with a strong foundation. By expanding my skill set that is more directly aligned with product management, this can help me transition into this role.
